These additional financial disclosure measures are intended to provide additional information. See the Company’s MD&A filed on SEDAR or its website for a reconciliation of these amounts to the unaudited interim financial statements for the respective periods.

⁽²⁾ Financial results from the Zimapan Mine have been recorded on a 100% basis in the Q2 and Q1 2020 figures but not in the Q2 2019 as the Company did not acquire the lease rights to the Zimapan Mine until July 2019.

The Company realized an average silver price of $16.49 per ounce during Q2 2020, which represents an 12% increase from Q2 2019 and a 1% decrease from Q1 2020.

The Company recorded a net loss of $636 ($0.00 per share) for the three-month period ended June 30, 2020 compared to a net loss of $1,137 ($0.01 loss per share) for the same period in 2019.

Revenues in 2020 of $5,939 arose entirely from mining operations whereas in 2019 $3,247 was generated by mining operations and $888 by mining services. The significant increase in mining operations revenue is a result of the acquisition of Carrizal Mining during 2019.

Silver equivalent production for Q2 2020 increased by 105% to 709,765 ounces as compared to 346,021 ounces in Q2 2019. This increase is largely due to the inclusion of production from the Zimapan Mine during Q2 2020 (2019 – nil) offset by a 50% decrease in production at the Rosario Project and suspension of operations at the Veta Grande Project.

by the Veta Grande Project, Rosario Project and the Zimapan Mine. Silver equivalent ounces produced in 2019 have been calculated using prices of $15.25/oz., $1,281/oz., $0.94/lb, and $1.20/lb for silver, gold, lead and zinc respectively applied to the metal content of the concentrates produced by the Veta Grande Project and the Rosario Project.

- (2) The comparative figures for Q2 2019 have been restated from the originally disclosed amounts based on an internal review of past metallurgical reporting practice and the adoption by management of new procedures designed to more accurately calculate the relevant data.
- (3) Silver equivalent sold ounces have been calculated using the realized silver prices stated in the table above, applied to the payable metal content of the concentrates sold from the Veta Grande Project, Rosario Project and Zimapan Mine respectively.
- (4) The Company reports non-IFRS measures which include Cash Cost per Silver Equivalent, All-in Sustaining Cash Cost per Silver Equivalent, Cash Cost of Production per Tonne, and Average Realized Silver Price per Ounce. These measures are widely used in the mining industry as a benchmark for performance, but do not have a standardized meaning and may differ from methods used by other companies with similar descriptions.
- (5) Amounts reported for the Zimapan Mine reflect the Company's 100% interest in the mine operations during Q1 and Q2 2020 but was nil% during Q2 2019 as the Company did not acquire the lease rights to the Zimapan Mine until July 2019

Cash cost of production per silver equivalent ounce sold decreased by 5% in Q2 2020 to $15.25/oz as compared to $16.09/oz in Q2 2019. This change in unit costs reflects the positive impact of the inclusion of the operating costs from the Zimapan Mine offset by a 51% increase in unit costs due to a 50% decrease in the silver equivalent ounce produced at the Rosario Project. The increase in unit costs at the Rosario Project is entirely due to the decreased production in Q2 2020 that occurred as a result of reduced staffing levels in connection with Covid-19 pandemic safety measures.

As compared to Q1 2020 the Q2 2020 unit costs decreased 18%. This change reflects a 10% decrease in unit costs at the Zimapan Mine together with a 9% decrease at the Rosario Project. The consolidated cash cost of sales for mining operations decreased by 41% while the amount of silver equivalent payable ounces sold decreased by 28% due to the mine suspension period for 42 days at Zimapan and a 40% personnel reduction at Rosario mine.

All-in sustaining cash cost of production per silver equivalent ounce sold decreased by 7% in Q2 2020 to $16.90/oz as compared to $18.27/oz in Q2 2019. As referenced above, this change in unit costs reflects the impact of the inclusion of the operating costs from the Zimapan Mine offset by the suspension of mining activities at the Veta Grande Project, and a 92% increase in unit costs at the Rosario Project due to a 50% decrease in the silver equivalent ounces produced. The consolidated all-in sustaining cost for mining operations increased by 77% and there was a 91% increase in silver equivalent payable ounces sold.

As compared to Q1 2020 the Q2 2020-unit costs decreased 10%. This change reflects a 9% decrease in unit costs at the Zimapan Mine and suspension of the Veta Grande Project, offset by a 10% increase at the Rosario Project. The consolidated all-in sustaining cost for mining operations decreased by 40% with a 33% decrease in silver equivalent payable ounces.
